

CHRISTOPHER S. FLANAGAN '67 of New Canaan, Conn., has joined Pitney Bowes as an attorney. Previously employed as an attorney by R.C.A. Service Corporation in Cherry Hill, N.J., and before that with the law firm of Theisen, Lank, and Mulford in Wilmington, Del., he served as a law clerk in the Superior Court of the state of Delaware after graduating from Duke University law school.

flashy red over-powered Corvette; so all is well, relatively.

Your secretary ran into Doug Mills recently in the Chicago airport. He is still with Quaker Oats and living in the Chicago area. He says that he would fill in details when he receives my next mailing.

Winter 1976

That's about it for this issue. Please don't be disappointed when the next postcard arrives.

'68 President, Thomas C. Demakis; Vice President, Dennis J. Kelly; Secretary, Robert H. Gillmore, 73 Penacook St., Manchester, N.H. 03102; Agent, James S. Boynton

Secretary Gillmore reports:

Notes are a bit shorter this time because (a) the Alumni Office has asked some of us longer-winded to blow less and (b) I forget to request postcards this time.

If, however, brevity is the soul of wit, this brief column should be ingenious.

A clipping from the Connecticut Valley Reporter in West Lebanon, N.H., tells us that Roger Maynard is teaching social studies at Hartford (Vt.) High School and has done some graduate work at Plymouth (N.H.) State College.

The post office reports that Dr. Mike Mustille now lives at 219 Modoc Place, Pacifica, Calif., and that newly married Pete Naylor lives at 12-D Escondido Village, Stanford, Calif.

Ned Perry, recently named an alumni trustee at Northfield-Mt. Hermon School, is now an attorney with the legislation and legal counsel division of the Labor Department and lives in Bethesda, Md.

Doug (D.A.) Rae writes that he "married Ms. Andrea Post (Bryn Mawr '70) Aug. 3 at Barnardston, Mass. (Healy's district). Jay and Bunny attended, as well as Cricenti and hoards from the North Country. Prof. Bolton and his wife, Judy, were also present. Andrea and I just returned from a raft trip down the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon followed by a week in San Francisco. Present address is 18 D Maple Hill Court, Chicopee, Mass.

Frank Reed writes: "On Aug. 8, Sharon gave birth to our first son, Jonathan Franklin Reed. He looks like a good prospect for the Class of '97!"

"We received a telephone call recently from Alice and Wendell Dickerson from San Salvador, where Alice is working for First National City Bank. Wendell dropped a job with one architect and is now designing a hotel in downtown San Salvador. It sounds like a great opportunity. We see a lot of Marion and Allen Swan (when we can afford to get out of the apartment with the baby). Al is still working in the Special State Prosecutor's Office and Marion is studying in business school.

"We also heard from 'Goddie' and Tony Lamb '69 not long ago. Tony referred an estate problem to me."

The Hartford Times reports that Jeff Stiefler "is the new president of Mintz & Hoke, Inc. Stiefler comes to Mintz & Hoke from Boise Cascade Corp., where he held a variety of management positions."

Finally, my special thanks to Glenn Everhart, who sent along a $40 check to help pay the Alumni Office for our postcards. We now owe the College nearly $200, and donations from any of you who would care to emulate Glen's generous example would be most welcome.

'69 President, Emmanuel Santa Donato; Vice President, Alan Dittrich; Secretary, Laurence B. McCullough, Institute of Society, Ethics and Life Sciences, The Hastings Center, 360 Broadway, Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y. 10706; Agent, Henry W. Comstock Jr.

Secretary McCullough reports:

Greetings from the Empire State or what is soon to be left of it, after the creditors get theirs. If I read the news correctly, I have arrived just in time for the bankruptcy of just about everyone and everything. Merely we role along.

Attending a cocktail party in November at the Williams Club in Manhattan (you don't say "New York City" around here, I discover), I ran into a couple of folks from the place of concrete and steel. These creatures, you see, travel underground and ascend later in steel boxes in the dark to dizzying heights and hang from the rafters of the World Trade Center. Looking none the worse for wear were Bob Helms, Terry Palmer, Bob Kandel and last, but never in any way least, Neville Hughes.

Bob Helms is involved with the corporate finance division of Blyth Eastman Dillon and Company (some of us, Peinert, are actually employed, making up for degenerate philosophers) of One Chase Manhattan Plaza in the Shrinking Apple. The firm deals in large leasing packages and, if I understood Bob's detailed description of his activities, is, to this philosopher, fascinating business — really.

Bob Kandel is lawyering it in a smallish firm in the City which he enjoys very much. Terry Palmer, if memory does not fail me, is involved in advertising and television. He was enthusiastic and happy about himself and the world, an unusual state of affairs for anyone these days.

Neville Hughes is, as previously reported, still at Columbia B. School, finishing up this spring. He was looking dapper as ever and planning the cool disposition of his first million. His famous record collection is now expanded, so I understand, into jazz and whatever. The world seems to be treating Neville well.

Paul Little sends a late but still welcome contribution for the class notes from 2612 Groesbeck Avenue, Lansing, Mich. 48912, which must, I think, be a new address.

Roy Gunter also sent funds and is now of 2806 Bidwell No. 1, Davis, Calif. 95616 and is also a lawyer. Roy was awarded his J.D. from the Davis Law School of the University of California in June '75. He is now pressing on for his master's degree in city planning "in order to give myself a little mobility, instead of getting tied down in some town to a lot of rich clients." An unpleasant fate, methinks. And, ah for noble sentiment. Roy hopes "to keep pace with the Chuck Collinses of this world anyway." Roy closes: "That's about the extent of my news. I haven't seen nor heard of a brother Williams graduate save Richard Wydick '59 (a law professor at Davis) since 1972." That's what you get for living at the edge of the world.

Speaking of Chuck Collins, he and Paula became parents in September. Catch up, Roy, my boy.

Ken Price is now to be found at the Jewish Bodhi Mandala Zen Center, Box 44, Jemez Springs, N.M. 87025.

David Shepard Wrightington '66, Bette Lynn Yeager Wrightington, John Arthur Shepard Wrightington and Seth Wrightington (which I cannot tell are one or many persons; if many, then Seth got shortchanged at the name dispersing counter) tell(s) me David Poe Mitzel of Last List fame in 1974 was in Fairview Park, Ohio, at 19450 Lorain Road. David the writer has some of David the wanderer's belongings and wishes to return them. David the writer also asks if I was in Prospect House. No, I can't say that I was.

I talked with Gordon Bryson and Liz who told me, truthfully, that their son was going to whip the Russian Army hockey team bare-handed. They all preper up in Millbrook near Poughkeepsie, or however you spell that place where Vassar used to be.

I just received a note from John Henderia. His wife, he reports, is "great with child." They are also on the move again, to Cambridge, Wis. (about 15 miles from Madison). He will have but one church, and not three, with a young congregation. "Tough decision to make but we are glad that we are going there." They should be there by now.

Richard F. Stovall is now Richard F. Whitten-Stovall. Plus ça change, plus c'est la même chose, as Eisenhower once said.

That's all for now. Look for a mailing soon and send news. Remember, vote for the candidate of your choice; all 11 of them.

'70 President, Louis H. Buck; Secretary, Jeffrey R. Krull, 245 Hamilton Ave., Kenmore, N.Y. 14223; Agent, W. Lawrence Hollar

Secretary Krull reports:

Ted May, world-renowned insurance mogul, ladies' man, and class treasurer, advises that he is "moderately bullish" on the Class of '70, financewise. He adds, however, that many of our members have not yet coughed up the 10 dollars requested of each of us last year. This money is needed to cover the cost of mailings and to establish a source of seed money for our next reunion. So, all deadbeats are urged to get with it. Send your checks to Ted May, 223 Cottonwood Road, Newington, Conn. 06111. Ted, by the way, was paid a visit by Christy and Harv Levin. Christy passed the bar last summer and Harv has joined the Washington office of "the largest Alaska-based law firm." Ted also reports seeing President Lefty Lou Buck, Gates Hawn, Gary Bensen and Whit Knapp at last year's Amherst game, and has heard from Bob O'Connell, who is serving a residency at New York Hospital. Ted and Debbie visited Marcia and Randy Greason and daughter Elizabeth in Bridgton, Maine, where Randy is teaching and coaching at Bridgton Academy in the off-season (he is pro at a local golf course

GARY ELION '69 has been named news director of WJZ-TV in Baltimore. Effective with his appointment, the news director became a department head, reporting directly to the station's general manager. He had been executive producer of programming for the channel since early 1974 after serving as assistant news director for the Boston Group W affiliate of WJZ, WBZ-TV. He holds an M.B.A. from Harvard Business School and lives with his wife and 18-month-old daughter in Baltimore.

Janforth Foundation, in the second year of the Yale Doctoral Program in American Studies. His household now comprises two daughters, Stephanie, 6 years, and Holly, 1½ years, a frenetic Irish setter, and a seemingly endless succession of babysitters who attempt to cope with this madness.

Jack Hunt is living in Amarillo, Texas, and is still in the cattle business. He is general manager of a privately held group of companies in the ranching, feeding and farming business. He welcomes all passers-through to stop by.

Rob Jones has a new son, Robert C. W. P. III, born Sept. 25, 1975. Rob writes that he has one more year at the University of Virginia before he is finished with general surgery training. Then he will finally have to give up his deferment and go into the Air Force for two years. Rob comments, "Fourteen years of dodging isn't too bad."

John Gail reports that he is now running the Harbour House Hotel north of Boston (Lynn, Mass.). He has a large restaurant/night club featuring the likes of Jose Feliciano, Al Martino, and lesser Vegas-type show acts. Besides being general manager at the hotel, he is responsible for the promotion and talent-buying for their other four properties. John says he will be more than happy to "set 'em up" for any classmates who stop by.

Jeff Kelleher is practicing law, doing general litigation for Pillsbury, Madison and Sutro in San Francisco.

Les Loomis says that after seven years away, "I finally made it back to Harvard Business School for my second year and will be receiving my M.B.A. this spring. Next year I will be at either Harvard or UMass picking up a doctorate in education as quickly as possible while continuing to concentrate in organizational behavior." He is heading toward being a high school principal and possibly starting a school some day. Les reports seeing Rich Gehrman, Mark Piechota and Mary Pat and Rusty Navins.

Rob Perlstein writes that he was board certified in internal medicine in June 1974, and in June 1976 will have completed a two years' endocrinology fellowship at the Brown University Medical Complex. He must fulfill a two years' Air Force obligation after that. His wife, Joan, and son, David, are supportive. Rob says that Pete Krause is completing a tour of duty as a pediatrician in the Army in Germany. "Ungie" Ungerer is in psychiatry in New Haven, Conn.

Rob Hammell is working for an architecture firm in Washington, D.C. The firm is Arthur Cotton Moore and Associates. He is working on a design that will put a shopping mall in the now abandoned trolley tunnel beneath Dupont Circle in D.C.

Stu Elliot is working as a counselor in Avon High School in Middletown, Conn. He assisted coaching the offensive line this fall and "had fun." Stu says he is developing a reasonable tennis game and would enjoy any competition. Doug McAvay and he play regularly. Stu saw Ron Warner, who says his jump shot and chess game need work. He ran into Bob Bahr, who is on the eye staff at Yale New Haven Hospital. Bob and his wife, Sue, are expecting their second child. Stu also saw Fred Ball in Brooklyn and got together with Barbara and Arnie de Beaufort.

Jon Cannon writes that he is a lawyer, married, with one child, Ariel, and another due to be born in August. He works for a small firm in D.C. (Ruckelshaus, Beveridge, Fairbanks and Diamond) and lives in Alexandria, Va., in a big wooden house with a slight lean.

Steve Kiechel and Julie report that, depending on the whims of the Army, Steve will either be serving his country next year or, hopefully, be on the orthopedics staff at the Medical College of Ohio in Toledo. Both their daughters, Emily and Kate, are growing by leaps and bounds. The Kiechels are looking forward to being near Julie's brother, Roger Mandle '63, and wife, Gayle. Roger has been recently made a trustee of the Toledo Museum and will assume the directorship next year.

DOUGLAS W. MILLS '67 has been promoted to director—product management, pet foods, by the Pet Foods Division of the Quaker Oats Company. He will have product management responsibility for Quakers full range of Puss 'n Boots brand cat foods as well as canned, dry and semi-moist dog foods marketed under the Ken-L Ration label. The holder of an M.B.A. from Stanford University's Graduate School of Business, he has been with Quaker since 1969. He and his family live in Wilmette, Ill.

Bill Holt obtained his doctorate degree in psychiatry at Brown University. He now is assistant professor of psychiatry at Southeast Massachusetts University and has been there for three years following teaching stints at Mount Holyoke and the University of Rhode Island. Bill's current research project is hypothermia—the study of body and brain temperature in relation to the process of learning. He has worked with the U.S. Air Force on this project and has had two articles on the subject published.

That wraps up this edition. As you can see, we are finally getting excellent participation from the alumni. If you missed the deadline, don't despair. Stay tuned for the next issue—you will be hearing from those cards and letters pouring in.

'68 President, Thomas C. Demakis; Vice President, Dennis J. Kelly; Secretary, Robert H. Gillmore, 73 Penacook St., Manchester, N.H. 03102; Agent, James S. Boynton

Secretary Gillmore reports:

The first half of the class (alphabetically listed) has responded to the latest Alumni Office innovation: The First Class Mailer, touted by Jesup Hall as a nickel cheaper than return postcards.

Tom Beach wrote from Philadelphia that he was slightly skeptical of the idea: "First class mailers indeed—consider that you're inviting response from all of us with novels trapped inside our felt-tipped pens."

"Made long, slow transition from retail specialty sports to delta-wing kite design, manufacturing, marketing (assisted by refusals from law schools)—now salesman for K2 Corporation (Yes—skis) where I probably should have been all along."

"See the McCullochs and Wellers with alarming regularity, the Auburns less frequently. Can't believe there's a Mini-Tuna crawling around Hawaii. Laurie and I haven't figured out how to live in the same state, much less the same house, for the last two years, but now that I'm more or less settled down the perpetual road trips to see each other may be a little less necessary."

Geoff Connor has been named to the Board of Governors of the Williams Club and says he hopes "more members of our class will take advantage of this very convenient facility than are currently doing so." As of May Geoff will be working for Cleary, Gottlieb, Stein & Hamilton in their London office and hopes that any classmate who finds himself in London will look him up.

Mike Griggs '44 writes that new resident members of the Williams Club include Bob Klattell and Bob Scott and that non-resident members are P. H. Clarke, Dave Earle and Dick McGinn.

Bob Cruse reports that he received his B.A. from Goddard College in 1974 and he sent along a very generous check to help pay for our class mailings. Bob says Shelby Hallmark '69 has both his B.A. and M.A. and is working in Washington and that Dave Kennedy '67 "got his law degree after he got out of the Army" and is "hearing office for the Corporation Commission here in Phoenix." Bob's address is 1650 North 38th Drive, Phoenix.

Lowell Davis is "still the varsity football and basketball coach" at the Landon School in Bethesda and plans "to spend the summer, as usual, working in Grosse Pointe, Mich. Special invitation to anyone in either area to stop and spend time with Nancy and me."

Peter DeOreo writes from Cleveland Heights: "Lin and I have an 18-month-old girl child (named Elizabeth). We are finishing our second year in Cleveland and are planning to move to Philadelphia in June." Peter is a resident at the University Hospitals of Cleveland and will be a nephrology fellow in the University of Pennsylvania this summer. "Bert Beraducci '71 and Jeff Spencer '70 are on the house staff here."

Tony DeWitt writes from Manchester, Mass., that he just finished his Ph.D. at the Fletcher School at Tufts "and am now pounding the pavement looking for full-time gainful employment. Will take State Department oral exams next month and have high hopes there. Otherwise I may have to camp out in Charlie Ebinger's ('70) living room in D.C. until I find something. G.I. Bill runs out in June, so I'd better hurry."

John Fulkerson, now living in Orange, Conn., says he "spent Christmas week cross-country skiing in Williamstown and visiting our friends the Arts (Hank and Pam). Hank is teaching in the biology department."

"I'm in the middle of a nine-month rotation at Newington Children's Hospital learning children's orthopedics and jogging two miles every day at lunch time. Will be undefeatable in tennis this season after this conditioning. I continue to offer the same challenge to Bruce Simon."

Bob Gault says he "saw Denny Kelly and Westy Saltonstall at a recent alumni function; practice of law (with Mintz, Levin, Cohn, Glovsky and Popeo) continues as before; skiing coming to a close with early thaw; wondering whether aging body will withstand another season with the Beacon Hill Rugby Club."

Charles Lambert is now a fellow New Hampshire. "After 3½ years in Philadelphia at Penn," he writes, "I managed to graduate six months early in December with a D.M.D. I am in the process of buying a 1775 colonial in the center of Amherst and setting up my practice there. I have been seeking the advice of dental colleague Doug Doan, who, along with Don McGill and a couple of six packs, recently toured the property. The recent arrival of my second daughter, Elizabeth (March 8), brings my family to five, along with wife Diana, Nathaniel, age 5, and Victoria, age 3."

Matthew Lyon writes from Denver that he is "working in the publications department of Amada Marga ('The Path of Bliss') on newsletters, magazines and posters for a wide variety of events. The purpose of my work, as well as of the whole organization, is to uplift the overall society on physical, mental and spiritual levels. This is what my life is dedicated to. Also teaching meditation classes and seminars."

"We recently suspended many regular activities to put together a long range reconstruction project in earthquake-struck Guatemala through our relief agency called 'AMURT' or Amada Marga Universal Relief Team."

"Heard from Peter Schneider recently after six years. He's living in Seattle with a wife and baby. He seems quite happy."

Joel Morse also sent a thoughtful contribution to what he called our "postage fund" and he wrote: "As of September I will be assistant professor of finance at the University of Delaware (Newark). By then I also hope to have successfully defended my dissertation, which is in an area called multiobjective mathematical programming."

Disappointing news about Dan Sullivan. The Alumni Office says his name has been removed from the class mailing list because his mail has been returned.

Particular thanks, again, to Joel Morse and Bob Cruse for their most welcome contributions.

'69 President, Emmanuel Santa Donato; Vice President, Alan Dittich; Secretary, Laurence B. McCullough, Institute of Society, Ethics and Life Sciences, The Hastings Center, 360 Broadway, Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y. 10706; Agent, Henry W. Comstock Jr.

Secretary McCullough reports:

The sun has come out finally; it has been absent ever since I left Texas last October. I helped out at this year's Alumni Fund Telethon and those of us who made calls compiled some info on our folks out there. It is the usual mixture of, as Dave Reid would say, downright half-truths and outright lies, unexpurgated and unembellished as is my wont.

Walter (Spike) Riley sends news of a third Riley, one Michael Byron, born into the world amidst joy and celebration on Dec. 15, 1975. May he grow up to be just like his old man, terrorizing and befriending everyone he meets.

David Shepard (Batman) Wrightington '66 reports that David Poe Mitzel is definitely not lost. He returned to Alabama to pick up his belongings and then promptly parted with them, except for "the crystal glass decanter and the one of the surviving four goblets." David, the lost, has left a job teaching journalism at a community college, after the college took a dislike to his publishing an underground, "radical street person rag." He is now, his own words, "the best bartender in Cleveland" and living in a penthouse. No address given, so Poe is still lost, which anyone in Cleveland usually is.

Tom Wilmott reports that he is "still hard at work in Watertown (N.Y.) teaching third-grade beasts. Good fun." I imagine a windowless classroom full of tiny monads careening around six hours a day could drive one mad, not that Wilmott would need much help.

The Alumni Office received and forwarded to me a press release from Jan Beeman who, I assume, manages a group of musicians known as the Balcones Fault. Who they, you say? They include Jack Jacobs and Archibald Fletcher Clark III (also known as Jack and Fletcher). They appeared on a television program, "Austin City Limits," which is carried nationwide. If you saw them, you will know that they are super. I have seen them live in Austin, the progressive country music capital of the world. Keep an eye on them, and both ears. I would not be surprised if they make an album or three.

Now to Telethon news, as promised. Helping Skip Comstock for the weekend were myself, Bob Grace, Bob Kandel and Fred Vinick. Fifty per cent of the class contributed which is great! Next year for the rest of you.

Tom Krens is teaching art at the College and living on glorious West Main Street. Life there treats him well. Bruce Campbell is in third-year med school at U. Vermont while Doug Downing is taking a Ph.D. at UMass.

Chuck Collins was not in when I called but I talked to Paula who told me that Chuck, she, and young Sara are off to San Francisco at the end of May so Chuck can start to make an honest living as an attorney.

Kevin Frye is now teaching history, philosophy, and "a little bit of geology" at his alma mater in Galveston, Ball High School. In geology Kevin and his students study the shifting sands of time on Galveston's beaches.

Rudy Spraycar '71 is alive and well — if that is possible in old Ithaca — at Cornell in a Ph.D. program in English, writing a dissertation on medieval literature.

Rich Wayne, forever never to be outdone, is now a bee-keeper in Middlehaddam, Conn., and I did not make any of that up. He is raising and selling queen bees in Middlehaddam, in all frankness. Winged and buzzing monads that sting.

Rick (Mother) Bailey is in, yes folks, it's true, rocketry. He is taking his M.S. in double E (a master's of science in electrical engineering) and was in the service for four years. He is now married and is in telemetry support and shushing barking dogs in Florida.

Mike Himowitz had just moved to a 100-year-old home in Baltimore which he is fixing up. Steepleton I woke up and he was angry.

Chuck Webster and wife, Patti Barr, are up in Vermont. Patti is reading law and is president of A.C.L.U. there and will join an all-women law firm. Chuck is teaching eighth grade in an alternate school and is flourishing.

Tom Parker is the father of a baby girl. George Sparling is now the D.A. for St. Mary's County, Maryland. Dick Stout is to be married on June 19 to Janny Palmer. He is "building and designing homes in spite of flunking Whit Stoddard '35's architecture course my senior year." Sic transit gloria mundi.

John Lambert lives on a farm in Grand Isle, Vt. Bruce Plenk turned up in law school in Salt Lake City. Chuck Elias is teaching school at St. George's in Spokane, Wash. He says that Pete Lineberger has been appointed clerk to a justice of the Montana Supreme Court.

Henry Walker is building a house and expecting a child next month. His wife just finished her master's in library science at the U. of Iowa. The mathematics department at Grinnell College is "booming." All that at the same time, in Iowa! Not to be believed.

Brenda Burns, taking a hint from Mr. Walker, is also expecting a child in the summer while Donna Paist, wife of Scott Paist, has probably had their baby by now. We grow and the world changes with us.

Frank Louis is with the regional council of the I.R.S. in New York. He is engaged in various aspects of tax litigation. Bill Hoffman reports — is this true? — that Hugh McCormick is living with his "guru" in California. Hugh, please explain. John Vandenbrink is still in graduate school in Japanese studies. He still has a ways to go, two or three more years.

Bob Young is doing a residency in St. Louis and will finish in two years. He plans to go into academic medicine, specializing in psychiatry.

That, my friends, is all the news that is unfit to print. I thank Bob and Bob and Fred and Skip for gathering up this information for the notes and I am sure Skip Comstock thanks all of you who gave to the Alumni Fund for your generous support.

I am going to try something a little different. There will be a mailing sent out, but only to half the class. So please respond if you hear from me. I'll get the other half at the end of the year. If I have no news for this column there is no column, which hasn't happened yet. I especially want to hear from folks whose names do not appear here so often. May the Mighty Monad shine upon you and all your doings and don'ts.

'70 President, Louis H. Buck; Secretary, Jeffrey R. Krull, 245 Harrison Ave., Kenmore, N.Y. 14223; Agent, W. Lawrence Hollar

Secretary Krull reports:

The Alumni Office has intimated that brevity may well be a class secretary's most endearing virtue. That being the case, my current offering should get raves, for it is, indeed, brev. Sad fact is, I've got very little to report this time around, which is partly my fault and partly yours. I didn't get postcards out in time and you guys didn't volunteer any news. We'll call it even. Next time I should have considerably more to offer, since by the time you read this you will have received cards and, one would hope, responded thereto. For now, the following few items constitute the substance of this quarter's report, TO WIT:

Ken McCurdy has been promoted to buyer of budget sportswear for McCurdy and Company, an establishment founded by Ken's great-grandfather. We fervently hope this venerable firm will survive the leadership of the younger generation. Jim Lobe passed his bar exam in California in 1974 and in Washington last year, and is now clerk to a Superior Court judge in Seattle. Win Newcomb has been named assistant manager in the consumer finance department of the First National Bank of Boston. He joined the bank in 1970 and was made a branch officer in 1973.

Mike Griggs '44 very thoughtfully sent me a list of some classmates who have recently joined the Williams Club, namely, Paul Wickes, John E. Nelson, Craig Miller, Giffie Whitbeck and Lou Buck. Advertising tycoon and opera star Jack Maitland reports that 1975 was a rough year for business, but that signs now point to an improved climate, adwise, in '76.

I continue to ply my trade as a reference librarian, guiding the lonely researcher on his tedious journey through the maze of recorded knowledge and nonsense. You don't get rich in this business, but you sure meet a lot of interesting people. For example, I was recently confronted by a sprightly little spinster who challenged me to disprove her assertion that she was a direct descendant of the Baron de Rothchild. Four priests in Paris, she assured me, would swear that this was so. Furthermore, the library had stolen all of her books and precisely when, she would like to know, was she to get them back? Not more than half an hour later an elderly citizen, who showed very distinct signs of having spent the last eight years in a storm sewer, was good enough to advise me never to purchase oleomargarine after 5 p.m. He then asked me to find the name of the president of General Dynamics Corporation and, upon my complying with his request, he bid me good-day. If the editors would allow it, I could relate any number of other strange tales, but I won't press my luck.

Finally Rick Loomis and family are reportedly planning a move to Hamden, Conn., where Rick is presently manager of a branch of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Company. And that's about it. If you have not yet responded to my plea for news, I urge you to do so at once. Until next time, then, Auf Wiedersehen.

'71 President, Drew W. Hatcher; Vice President, William W. Reichert; Secretary, Gene M. Bauer, 212 East 48th St., Apt. 8G, New York, N.Y. 10017

5th Reunion HQ — Perry House (formerly Alpha Delta Phi). Reunion Chairman: George L. Estes III, 660 Prospect Avenue, Hartford, Conn. 06103

Secretary Bauer reports:

The response to the first mailing of postcards was "educational." Apparently you people do know how to write so long as someone else is paying the postage. Without further ado, let me summarize the postcards that I have received, in the order of their receipt.

Bill Miller has been informed that he will be interning at Metropolitan Hospital in New York starting July 1. Bill still manages to do some hiking in the Hudson Highlands despite a full load of medical courses.

Mrs. R. Brand reports that Don Brand is at International House, University of Chicago, in graduate school.

John Walker is completing requirements for an M.S. degree in chemistry at Boston College.

Paul Oldshue is a lending officer with the Chemical Bank in Manhattan. Paul reports hearing from Rob Farnham (Chemical Bank), Dave

Gary Lamphere sends word that after two years in the Public Health Service, he is now finishing family medicine residency at Duke. Judy and he will move their gang (three kids and a grandmother) to Exeter, N.H., where he begins practice in August. He hopes to have a place with rooms for guests. Gary's closing comment/question is "How come Shafmaster never writes?" (Just to help with an answer, we probably just haven't gotten to Jon alphabetically. Jon, where are you?)

The Rev. Steve Hornberger writes from Peru: "Nancy, Chuyasongo (our daughter) and I are completing a three-year survey of social and religious work done in the Quechua language in the Peruvian State of Cusco. We are also developing (written) Quechua literature. Quechua is the co-official language of Peru, along with Spanish. About 60 per cent of Peruvians speak Quechua. Our work is with the Board of World Missions and Ecumenism of the Lutheran Church in America."

Art Lutzke (it's about time we heard from you, Art) writes that his wife, Nancy, and he had a baby girl, Jessica Ivy, on April 3.

It must be baby year on the New Frontier because Tom Mahler and Sue also proudly announced the birth of their daughter, Elizabeth, on March 25, 1976.

Taking absolutely no one by surprise Neil O'Donnell announced his marriage on May 22 to Chris Nottley, formerly of Alexandria, Va. The ceremony took place in San Francisco, where I assume the O'Donnells will make their residence. Yet another hold-out falls!

Finally, from the Williams Club are the following highlites and sidelites: New members: Ko Ching Po and Neil H. O'Donnell. Reelected secretary, Tom Phelan. Elected to the Board of Governors, Lyn Comfort.

And so it goes until the next convention. May those cards and letters pouring in. And remember, please, to go soon to making at least tentative plans for attending next year's Oth. (count 'em) Reunion.

'68 President, Thomas C. Demakis; Vice President, Dennis J. Kelly; Secretary, Robert H. Gilmore, 73 Pennacook St., Manchester, N.H. 03102; Agent, John R. Oppenheimer

Secretary Gillmore reports: Spencer Beebe is back in Oregon and reports his new address as 1720 N.W. Hoyt Street, Portland.

John Dirlam writes: "I have just ended a two-year exile in the nation's capital with a transfer to the Boston office of the consulting firm (Towers, Perrin, Forster & Crosby) which sees fit to pay my salary.

"Before leaving, I was host to a small party attended by such Williams types as Bob Heiss, Ray Kimball '70, Scott Anderson and their respective wives. Speaking of wives, Scott was married to Joan Baer in November at the University of Maryland chapel in College Park. Strike one more bachelor from the ever-dwindling list.

"One other item of interest: I can reliably report that Bill Roesing (recently on the 'lost list') is alive and well in Washington, D.C. Bill joined Bob Heiss and myself for lunch on two occasions and confessed to working for a political consulting firm. Perhaps that explains his low profile in recent years. Anyway, he seems to be enjoying it a great deal."

Henry Hecht, who can be reached care of the American Consulate in Katmandu, Nepal, says: "I thought I'd try my April address out for size. I finished a trial in Chicago in November for the Watergate Special Prosecutor and left D.C. on an early retirement plan — hiked with Clint Wilkins in Texas, drove up the California coast, skied in Sun Valley and now, off to Asia. Is there a Williams Club in Katmandu?"

Dick Heller, now of 43 Linnean Street,

Cambridge (a longish throw from Harvard Square), sends us a late, but most welcome, report that he's a staff director at WGBH-TV (PBS) in Boston. "This is precisely what I was doing about five years ago, but I took some time off to sow wild oats. Now everything's all settled and respectable. My wife, Amanda (Holyoke '58, assistant managing editor of the Atlantic Monthly), is expecting our first child in September, by which time we will have moved into our first house in the suburbs. Last September we visited Christine and Michael Morfit in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, in the north of England, and this spring they passed through Cambridge on their way to take up work as international representatives for the Friends (Quakers) in New Delhi, accompanied by their son, Mason. We keep pretty close contact with Mike Wasserman, now a lawyer in Atlanta, and his lovely wife and two daughters. My directing credit can be seen on PBS network programs like Evening at Pops or Evening at Symphony. I do a lot of local work, too, with Elliot Norton (drama critic), Julia Child and our annual fund-raising auction."

John Herpel says he's "still plugging along the endless medical road to riches, power and, of course, eventual total government take-over. The biggest development: to report is my engagement to Stella Jones, a sweetie I met while I was at Duke Medical School and who is going to get her vet medicine degree at the University of Pennsylvania next month. After that, as all our friends keep telling us, we'll be able to take care of anything that moves! Will finish my ophthalmology residence in 1978 and then move back up to New England to practice."

Bram Jelin "returned to Georgia to learn pediatric gastroenterology at Emory University. On Nov. 9, 1975, Sandra Eve Jelin, our first, was born."

Jim Lowenthal enclosed a clipping from the Vanderbilt Hustler, which, he says, reviews "the latest in the saga of Jim Lowenthal v. The Vanderbilt University Graduate School of Management. Only now, it's really Lowenthal et al. v. Vanderbilt University, and you may use the case some day in the classroom." The issue is accountability in higher education and the complaint reads breach of contract. The Graduate School of Management attracted persons into its doctoral program promising to offer a quality education that would lead toward a valuable degree, there was faculty dissent and a change in the requirements for a degree that made it virtually impossible for the school to keep its part of the agreement. The students are demanding a tuition refund and compensation for personal damages that include housing costs and delayed entry into the job market. "Fortunately," says Jim, "while the administration is scurrying around trying to find a scapegoat (universities don't like being suit sued) at the GSM, I'm comfortably settled into the Ph.D. program in sociology. Looks like I may finally have the degree by next spring."

Albert Miller says he'll "finish second year of internal medicine residency July 1977, so will be at Medical Center Hospital of Vermont in Burlington for one more year. Love this state! I Son Jeffrey, 1-year-old presently. Still trying to find a job in Vermont's depressed job market."

Mark H. Pearlman, M.D., says: "Andy, Nina, the two dogs and I are heading back to Denver. Our two years in 'Central Office' are up and my P.H.S. career as public servant are done. While these years have been 'educational' (both positive and negative), we're looking forward to Colorado. I'll be doing a final year of pediatric residency, and then a year from now I'll be joining a pediatric practice (I hope) in Denver. We've just bought a house in Aurora and have lots of room for transient skiers (bring your own sleeping bags!)."

Leslie William Perttula (alias Bill Pete) says: "Just finished my first year of teaching marketing at San Francisco State University. I will be there next year also, but still on temporary status. Tenure is very hard to obtain. Elaine and I had a very nice vacation in January: Switzerland and Italy (18 days in Italy, but not enough in Florence). Occasional tennis with Ted Olson, who lives in San Mateo."

Ed Rea "had lunch with Clark McHadden the other day. Clark is now counsel of the Senate Armed Services Committee, which appears to be keeping him busy."

Phil Recht: "Completed my J.D./M.B.A. at U of Chicago. We've moved to Milwaukee, where I begin as an attorney with Quarles & Brady and where Donna will temporarily interrupt her teaching career to give birth to our first child in August."

"By the time this reaches you," writes Bill Shapiro, "Ginny and I hope to be the proud parents of a second child. Ginny expects to deliver the baby in early June and is healthy, although somewhat uncomfortable. I'm now working on utility rate cases for the Defere Department — a rather large utility customer. My office is at the Pentagon, which is, indeed, a difficult place in which to find your way around. Bicentennial visitors to the nation's capital are most welcome to come and visit with us."

Bill Smith reports that he has "passed generals in my Ph.D. program in comparative religion at Harvard. We will now go abroad to Sri Lanka (Ceylon) for a year of research for my thesis on a topic in Indian Buddhism. Barbara is still teaching deaf-blind children at Perkins School for the Blind and will supervise a teacher-training program for teachers of deaf-blind children this summer before we leave in mid-August."

"We have discovered it's nice to have things to do besides work: Barbara has a floor loom that fills a large spot in our living room and I have taken up black and white photography and hope to get a good collection of prints as well as color slides on our trip abroad, for further teaching purposes."

"It all goes well, I hope, finally, to have the Ph.D. and be on the faculty of a college religion department in the fall of 1978. Being a tutor in the newly formed undergraduate religion concentration at Harvard has been one of the greatest pleasures of the year for me, and I look forward to more teaching — to a lifetime of it, in fact."

David Snyderman writes: "After finishing two years in the U.S. Public Health Service with the Center for Disease Control, I am returning to Boston for a two-year fellowship in infectious diseases at Tufts-New England Medical Center. My wife, Diane, and I are expecting our first child in November. We have bought a house in Wellesley. I have spoken frequently with Fanchon and Al Sklaver (who is pursuing an I.D. fellowship in Miami. He and Jane love it there and may establish permanent residence in that area). I intend to become a hospital epidemiologist and infectious disease consultant."

Bob Stanton reports: "One more year to go in the Yale orthopedic program. We're starting to look for a place to settle, but have made no decision yet. Who wants to practice orthopedics with all the lawyers lying in wait? My son is now 10 months old. Sure keeps us occupied."

Jeff Stettler, now with Mintz & Hoke in Avon, Conn., says, "Our agency continues to grow. Now one of the three or four largest consumer agencies in New England we plan to occupy the top position within two years. Haven't seen or heard from any classmates since Amherst. Hopefully, things will slow down enough this summer to reestablish contact."

Tony Suh "got married (to Suzanne E. Leith, Stanford '69 and U. of Michigan — M.A. '72) on the first day of spring, went to Mexico City for honeymoon, and got pickpocketed. Trying, for now, to find a job closer to Palo Alto, where my wife is attending Stanford Law School."

Kent Van Allen says: "The big news in our house is Samuel Kent Van Allen, born May 2. This is our first child, and the change in lifestyle we were promised has occurred. I understand that Jim Boynton also became a father about the same time I did. Ran into Roger Crafts on the train out to Summit the other day. Haven't seen him since 1968. He seems to be getting along well. I heard Clark McFadden got married." Van Dyken lives in Wayne, N.J.

Dr. Jacob Van Dyken lives in Wayne, N.J., and is now a fellow in infectious diseases at Hackensack (N.J.) Hospital. He says he would like "to hear from, or be informed of Dan Sullivan's address." I'm afraid Dan is on the "lost list." If anyone out there can help, please so do.

Bob Wall says he shed another child, Elizabeth, age 3 months, and has been appointed to the faculty of the University of Washington Medical School as an instructor in medicine division of hematology."

Mike Wasserman writes from Decatur, Ga. "We have been blessed with a second daughter Rebecca, to add to our first, Gill, which leaves me surrounded with beautiful women. The practice of law is finally beginning to agree with me now that I've managed to convince people I know something about the Internal Revenue Code. Most of my work has been in corporate law, with a healthy dose of partnerships and an ever-increasing amount of international transaction. In this last connection, I may be off to the Mideast in the near future. Can you guess which country?"

Ron Yee writes from Honolulu with a complaint: "Eve the time I get your mailer it's usually too late to answer. This time, however, I see that I have one day. Is Hawaii that far away? It would seem so, since my long standing invitation to classmate visitors has been accepted twice in the last eight years. That invitation remains open, by the way, although the accommodations I can provide are somewhat less due to the fact that I got married in March to the former Warsh Deann Lauderback. I remain a practicing lawyer and am satisfactorily entrenched in the establishment."

Michael Yogman says, "Judy will be finishing law school next year and I'll be joining the faculty at Harvard Medical School in pediatrics."

Small world department: I've been looking for another house with the help of Kay Walsh, aunt of Bob Lord and sister-in-law of Bob Lord '73, who now lives in Auburn, a suburb east of Manchester. Kay reports that Bob still enjoys his work at Hanovers Trust and was recently named a vice president.

I need not add that summer in New Hampshire is the nearest thing on earth to paradise and that you are all welcome to stop in when and if you are up here.

A final note (with Ron Yee in mind !): If you receive a mailer too late to return for a particular issue send it back anyway and I'll use it in later issue.

Kevin J. Dougherty has been named an assistant vice president in the U.S. banking department of Bankers Trust Company in New York. He joined the bank in 1973, was named assistant treasurer in 1974. He received his M.B.A. from Columbia in 1972. Kevin and his wife live in Rye, N.Y.

'69 President, Emmanuel Santa L. nato; Vice President, Alan Dittrich; Secretary, Laurence B. McCullough. Program in Medicine & Humanities, College of Medicine, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843; Agent, Henry W. Comstock Jr.

Secretary McCullough reports:
Well, folks, some of you actually responded my latest appeal for news. Don't blame me just what I read, though my reading a too good no more

I have just come back from two soul-refreshing weeks in Texas, so I am in shape to deal with this part of the world for the next two months before I escape to big skies and freedom.

I wasn't in Texas a day when I saw Jack Jacobs in Galveston. He was there with his band, The Balcones Fault. Folks in this area

AUSTIN BROADHURST JR. '69 has been named a management services associate with Travenol Laboratories, principal operating subsidiary of Baxter Travenol Laboratories, manufacturers and distributors of a diverse line of hospital and health care products. He was previously with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and is a resident of Highland Park, Ill.

can now see Austin City Limits on PBS — watch for Jack's and Fleeth Clerk's appearance. In Galveston I also saw Kevin Frye, who is about to open a restaurant on the Strand in the older section of the city. It will be called "Friar's," or some such. If you're ever in that part of the world, stop by. Kevin, I am sure, will be the pluperfect host.

Bob Kandel, Mike Griggs '44 tells me, has been elected to the Board of Governors of the Williams Club in the city. This writer belongs to the club as well, enjoying an occasional refreshment while waiting for trains that go here and there.

Eric Kelly is "happily practicing law in Pueblo, Colo., my hometown." He opened his office in February and is quite busy, while he sits at a roltop old-fashioned desk and enjoys the mountains out his window. He still works for the planning group in Denver and is teaching a graduate course at the U. of Colorado in planning. Eric reports seeing Ross (Anvil Brain) Wilson "in a bar near the courthouse in Colorado Springs. He ordered the 'usual' from the waitress, which she understood (correctly or not) to be a hamburger." In Denver, at a Williams reception, Eric saw Jack Richtsmeir '71 and Dick Forman '68, who are both practicing the law. He also saw Tom Crowley '70, who is heading for Maine in the specialty wood business. The peripatetic Eric also saw Mike Sabath — "his photo recently made the Denver Post while he was participating in a colorful trial." Eric adds: "Pat Dunn sent me a greeting T-shirt saying MMMMMM Kelly but with no news. He was still in New York at that point. Really? Eric has bought and is fixing up a turn-of-the-century (Eric didn't say which century) house and wishes all a Happy Bicentennial and recommends the festivities in Boston. Boston, sad to say, was once a great city. Hatred has stolen its soul."

Ron Goyette writes that he is "killing the Great American Dream with 'progressive downward mobility' — a maintenance man." The page is short but "it's an honest living, keeps food on the table, a roof over my head, wheels on the road, and wax on the stereo." He reports that he hears from Jon Petke and wife who are in Mission Valley, Calif.

Blare of trumpets and roll of drums, John Plummer found a job, beck in Columbus, Ohio. That's difficult — finding a job, and finding one in Columbus. One has first to find Columbus. He is now a research chemist in the foundry products division of Ashland Chemical Company in Dublin, Ohio. Returning to Columbus has not been difficult: "I think any town looks a little better when you don't have to bum around in it on a graduate student's salary." Graduate students get a salary? As Peinert will tell you, yes. But not much. Not enough for a living.

graduate students do not work for a living. From Barry Bartrum. "In response to your note, over the past year I have done the following: 1) Moved from Princeton to Atlanta where I am teaching English at Oglethorpe University; 2) Finished my dissertation on Trollope's Pallis novels; 3) Have had a couple of brief visits with Sandy and Tom Goodbody (at the Atlanta airport). That's about it. As you can see my life is dull and without the dissertation to absorb my time will probably grow duller yet." Not so publish the dissertation! This is your chairman sneaking, Bartrum.

Christopher Hastings sent two notes. One and F sharp." "If you need more notes I'd be glad to send you some more. There are quite a few nice ones left over." Chris is now in San Francisco: "and stopped working in theatre. I'm looking around at other ways of living." Mr. Hastings may be found at 483 Dolores Street, S.F. 94110.

From Sam Bruskin, barrister and musician: "The big wonderful news is that on Sept. 19 I shall be getting married to the greatest girl in the world, one Deborah Dean Morse, Bennington '73 and now doing graduate work in music at B.U. Otherwise, things are pretty much the same. Leading a very busy existence with tons of music and a too hectic law practice." The same as what?

Tom Glatfelter is now the father of son Timothy, arrived planet Earth Feb. 12, 1976. Tom coached the delivery "which was an incredible experience." What grand things the world holds in store. In the fall, Tom and Marey are off to D.C. where Tom will be working for the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation at HEW, doing research and "fire-fighting." Tom has become "established" and signs off with a "boola-boola." Leibniz taught that the world is full of variety: he never knew, Lloyd Constantine was married June 22, 1975, to Jan Friedman Leven, sister of Patty Friedman '77. He is in legal services in New York. He wrote: "Bram Jelin '68, a new father; Telford Taylor '28, a new father I!" Bob Kandel, a new husband; Charles Gordon, squash; Whitton and Pollet, infrequently. Gel phone calls in the middle of night for Mike Morrison from women he met in Rome in 1971 etc. Think about Jack Urquhart a lot." King of like looking out of a subway window at one self.

Lee Griffith: "Our big news is the birth of a daughter, Amanda Ellis, on July 24, 1976. Otherwise still practicing law in Hartford," not to mention sorcery and whatever. Lee, you did mean 1975, didn't you?

Bob Grace still practices the law on Wall Street. "The legal business has had its ups and downs the first four months of this year with March the busiest time. I had a very nice week-long business trip to Los Angeles in March which has absolutely no newsworthiness as I did not even make a side trip to Disneyland." The two are different? He asks a logical puzzle: "Is there any chance that the law of the excluded middle will ultimately exclude Texas? Or is the law of the excluded right which accomplishes that?" Yes and yes or no.

Jack Heckscher is working with 700 high schoolers "to whom I am one of their guidance counselors. Besides, I am the varsity soccer coach and reserve varsity tennis coach. Overall a very healthy, demanding existence with my most important job being a super father to two beautiful kids." What is a "reserve" tennis coach?

Paul Harsch plans to have news for the next column. Now that I've said so in print, he cannot back out.

Greg Entie is in Cincinnati (a difficult city to spell, much less find) and will be living at 830 Mayfair Avenue, Zip: 45216, after a holiday in Florida. Peinert wants me to think that doctor work for a living.

Bill Hoffman (in D.C.) "just finished not being elected as a Udali delegate to this summer Democratic Convention." Should have gone thought to a possible side trip up to Poultny during next year's reunion.

E. TUCKER HARRISON III '67 has been named vice president in the marketing division of Chemical Bank in New York. As deputy director, he will handle advertising and promotion. He joined the bank in 1970 after getting a master's from the University of Virginia Graduate School of Business Administration. He and his family live in New Canaan, Conn.

Jack Sjöholm (until recently apparently in hiding from the probing eye of the Review) and his lovely wife, Gretchen, announce the birth of their first child, Sarah Elizabeth, on Feb. 11, 1976. The Sjöholms and Tom Mahlers vacationed together on the North Shore of Lake Superior. Charlie Worrall visited them last summer for an evening. Charlie is enjoying Fort Wayne and is starting his own business there.

Larry Ricketts also reports the birth of his son, Will, on May 6, 1975.

Harry Schooley is teaching (history), coaching and administering (academic dean) at Buffalo Seminary. In May he received the Community Service Award of the Elmwood Business Association in recognition of three years with the E.B.A. Board of Directors.

Clarence Wilson has joined the legal department at the United States Gypsum Company in Chicago.

Alan Stahl, since completing his stint at the U.S.P.H.S. in July, has been conditioning himself to practicing internal medicine in Columbia, Md., with a multispecialty group. Meanwhile, he is performing "house-husband" duties while his wife is finishing her radiology residency.

Mike Roizen writes that since we last looked in on him he has 1) married a delightful woman, Nancy, 2) gotten his boards in internal medicine, 3) served the public health by doing research as one of the yellow berets of the National Institutes of Health, and 4) is now completing an anesthesia residency at the University of California in San Francisco. He looks forward to hosting any classmates in the area but cautions that they should come with squash racquet in hand. Mike is still ranked number 3 in the state. There are three active players in California.)

Dave Saylor is enjoying the life of a bourgeois bureaucrat—house, station wagon, wife (Jenny), daughter (Elizabeth—1 year). Williams contacts minimal: Gardy Gillespie at Hogan & Hartson law firm, where Dave worked until the end of 1975, and Chris White, who is an assistant director of the Bureau of Consumer Protection, F.T.C., where Dave is an assistant director in Bureau of Competition, the antitrust branch of F.T.C. Dave says he is still going bald, but he hasn't made it yet.

Harry Tether writes that Suzanne and he have been living in Mexico since February where he is lending money for Chase Bank and Suzanne is teaching at Montessori School. They just returned from a three-week vacation through the Southwest where they enjoyed seeing Ann and Jon Macomber in Denver. They arranged an impromptu reunion with Sue and John Coombe '68, who was passing through on his way to Seattle.

Denny Sullivan is still teaching economics at Miami (Ohio), "which at least has good football teams. The students, who have never heard of Williams, are suitably bemused by my ashtay as it plays 'Yard by Yard.'" A son, Paul Andrew, arrived last Dec. 30.

Chick Tucker is still playing Navy lawyer in Newport and enjoying newly acquired parenthood (David Lindsay, born May 1). He occasionally sees Joe Venishnick and allegedly whips him at cards.

Dick Mosher and his wife, Gretchen, have had their third child (one boy and two girls). Dick is working for a Detroit law firm, and Gretchen is in nursing school. They saw Ann and John Schwab frequently until this June when John was transferred to Hong Kong.

Ed Wing, breaking a long silence, writes that he and Peter Grossman are in the same research laboratory at Stanford Medical School. Ed has one more year and then hopes to teach at a medical school.

Bob Trent (a.k.a. Rob Brendt) writes, and I quote for your entertainment, "Finally completed Ph.D. in English, though am not pursuing implications of dissertation title (namely, that I have solved a discipline problem, am seriously, nay, dreadfully committed to academia's rich pageant): 'The Case Against Death: Transformations of Generation in the Writings of William Blake.' Have begun career as professional wrestler."

Phil Taylor, formerly staff aide and escort interpreter to the Ambassador to the Organization of American States, spent the last two years traveling up and down the hemisphere. He is now one month into a three-year assignment to the Embassy at Rome as consul. He is now fully employed tracking down his household effects.

Jon Stableford, another voice out of the past, is switching jobs. After eight years teaching English in public school, he is moving to Andover and private school teaching and coaching.

Wes Westmeyer (Wes wrote to tell your secretary not to print anything about him. So, per instructions, except to say that he and family are living in East Windsor, N.J., I am printing nothing. Now that's humility!).

Paul Streicker is now president and typist of Streicker and Company, an advertising agency in Providence, R.I. He exclaims, "It's been a long climb to the top."

Jon Vipond writes that he is taking something of a rest (permanent?) from elective politics, especially since '76 doesn't look to be a winning year for Republicans. So he is now counsel to the Court Administration of Pennsylvania based in Philadelphia. He represents judges who are being sued in state and federal courts.

Hugh Smyser is heading for Harvard Business School this fall. He has been living in Providence, R.I., and D.C. as a photo journalist. Last year he was the Red Cross national photographer.

Roger Walke is in Eugene, Ore., where he is working on his doctorate in anthropology, and also working (payless-ly) for the Pacific Northwest Research Center. He asks, "Where is Vance Horne?"

Morgan Nields is running an X-ray company in Chicago, the H. G. Fischer Company. Jim Roe '68 is running the Clayton chemical division of Fischer. Morgan lunched with Dave Rikert in Poughkeepsie recently. Dave is starting Harvard B-school this fall. Morgan reports seeing Dave Coolidge '65 and Paul Kimball '65 and mogul Dave Schulte '68. Morgan writes, "Binky is about to deliver twins, a fitting sequel to a current family of four boys, aged 0-6."

Bill Sander in Virginia now is in marketing with a subsidiary of Rubbermaid, responsible for their office products division. He reports the arrival of their number 2—David Adams Sander—on July 19, 1976.

Bill Taylor (wife Susan, daughter Shannon—11 months) writes that he finished his pediatric training at Yale and, to seek warmer climes, has joined a pediatric group in Columbia, S.C.

Kirk Varndoe is teaching art history (grad and undergrad) at Columbia University. He spent the summer working on two exhibitions he organized, one for Columbia on 20th-Century portraits and self-portraits, to show at Wilderstein Gallery in N.Y.C., Oct. 20-Nov. 28; the other on Gustave Caillebotte, French Impressionist painter, to show at Houston Museum of Fine Arts, Oct. 21-Jan. 2, and then at Brooklyn Museum, Feb.-April, 1977.

Ted McPherson writes that since moving from Washington, D.C., three years ago he and his wife, Sally, have been living in Dallas, Texas, where he is responsible for corporate planning for the Republic National Bank, a $4 billion financial institution. This year Sally managed the Smith College book sale in addition to caring for their first child, Janet Elizabeth, now 2 years old.

Mark Piechota is beginning his second year at Harvard Ed School leading to a doctorate in educational administration. Mark is interested in high school principalships.

Jake Taylor writes, "Lise and I are still living in Los Angeles with our two kids—Peter, age 3½, and Elizabeth, 8 months. For those who would have feared that I had lapsed into middle age, I would just point out that I still play rugby (for Santa Monica R.F.C.—we came in second in the Monterey Tournament for the third year in a row) and last year I braved the wilds of Canada and avalanches to ski in the Bugaboos."

From the Bank of Boston, Sao Paulo, Brazil, comes a note from Carroll Perry: "Still in Brazil, wrestling with the mysteries of this extraordinary country. There is also the squawk of a new baby girl in our lives, and that's about it. Hope you are well and recognizable after almost 10 years."

Finally, from Bedford, Mass., comes Dan Moorhead with his own rival to "Ode to a Grecian Urn." The effort addressed: "To my erstwhile comrades . . . Williams '67" can be obtained by sending your secretary a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

What more can I add. There seems to be a good deal of enthusiasm building for reunion next year. Make plans today.

The following members of the Class of 1967 are on the "lost list." If you know their whereabouts, please inform the Society of Alumni:

Thomas L. Ewing, Edward G. Helm II, Richard A. Hornor, Thomas R. Jack, George C. Lee, Paul S. Lipof, G. Alexander Maurogordato, John N. Roberts, William T. Roberts, William F. Willett, Jonathan C. Vulp

'68 President, Thomas C. Demakis; Vice President, Dennis J. Kelly; Secretary, Robert H. Gillmore, 792 Maple St., Manchester, N.H. 03104; Agent, John R. Oppenheimer

Secretary Gillmore reports:

Thanks to a delightful and most welcome mini-flood of mail this month we begin with a newsy note from Al Swan:

"I was just cleaning out my apartment, throwing out things I never knew I had, when I ran across my old 'Calvin Coolidge went to Amherst' button. That reminded me that it was high time to bring the class notes up-to-date."

"Last week, after two tumultuous years, I left my job at the Office of the Special State Prosecutor, just two days ahead of my boss, Maurice Nadjari. He left (involuntarily) because he rubbed Governor Carey the wrong way; whereas I left because my wife, Marion, and I had decided last summer that this year we would finally get out of New York City. We are going to Boston, where Marion, who just completed her M.B.A. at Columbia, will be working for New England Merchants Bank, and I will be entering private practice with the law firm of Goldstein and Manello. We are buying an old house in Ipswich, and we hope any sojourner to the Massachusetts coast will drop by—we have plenty of room for occasional boarders. The new address will be:

38 Argilla Road, Ipswich, Mass. 01938. Just bring some beer and sleeping bags.

"Frank Reed, who is still treading the Wall Street legal mill at Milbank, Tweed, Hadley & McCoy, is also moving to a house in North Tarrytown with his wife, Sharon, and 1-year-old son, Jonathan. There they plan to spend their leisure hours swimming in the Hudson River, well north, fortunately, of the sludge zone. In short, Frank and I have fled from squalor and are now fulfilled members of the mortgage-paying, commuting middle class.

"As for the other members of the class, Dick Dickerson was in town recently for a brief visit. He is now an independent architect living with his wife, Alice, in exile in El Salvador, Central America. Now that they have finally rid their home of spiders and lizards, they are, I understand, living quite well and comfortably. I also had lunch with Denny Kelly in Boston not too long ago when I was still looking for a job up there. He is a successful litigator with a large law firm.

"Once in a while I run into Arthur Cambouris and Bob Claridge, both appellate advocates with Legal Aid. When I was working for the Manhattan D.A.'s office, they were adversaries of mine on a number of cases, and they are, not surprisingly, among the best lawyers I have worked with in New York. Pancho Demakis is still doing well at the Manhattan D.A.'s office (where everyone calls him Tom, of all things) and recently hit me for a tax deductible donation to keep these class notes in business.

"Finally, Joe Adelson has made a welcome annual tradition of visiting us at Christmas time on his way up to Northampton to see his family. He is deeply ensconced in the Georgia sunshine, living just outside of Atlanta, and working as a clinical psychologist. The last time he was here, in December, I asked him about politics in Georgia. One of the things he noted was that Jimmy Carter was a little-remembered governor who has no support in his own state, and that he would not be going anywhere. Thus, I'm glad that Joe is a psychologist and not a fortune teller."

Jim Anderson writes from Vestal, N.Y.: "I have recently finished my Ph.D. at Caltech and am now an assistant professor of geology at S.U.N.Y. Binghamton."

Spencer Beebe reports: "Second son, born Dec. 22, 1976, Samuel Magavern Beebe, is thriving like his older brother, Siles, age 3. Jane and I are renovating an old Victorian house in Portland while I continue to work for The Nature Conservancy. Ted Ragsdale's medical practice is thriving, and he has beat me in two-thirds of our squash games with a full-length cast on one leg."

Steve Bradley, awaking from the dead, says: "Believe it or not, life exists in beautiful downtown Buffalo. But seriously, folks, much has been happening in this town. I am currently on the faculty of the music department of the State University of New York at Buffalo where I specialize in electronic music. Professor Barrow would cringe if he knew that I traded my Renaissance counterpoint books for a studio full of synthesizers and tape recorders, but we do what we must do! At present I am working on engineering a world premiere performance of a new work by John Cage which calls for enough electronics to short circuit the entire city of Buffalo (no great loss!) and I really enjoy working with Cage himself. On the personal side, I am still single (and loving it!) and have recently purchased an apartment house which I rent to musicians exclusively. I live there also with my two cats, 'Mouse' and 'Lamont.' I have heard from no one from Williams in over a year and would greatly appreciate hearing from any of the Class of '68. If you happen to know the whereabouts of Joe Adelson, Mark Jacox or Bob Chambers I would like to communicate with any or all of them. This does not preclude any interest in correspondence with other members of the class. I would gladly trade letters, postcards, telegrams, phone calls, or other more exotic epistles with any interested parties."

POLITICIAN Jonathan (Jay) Healy '68, Massachusetts State Representative for several towns in Berkshire and Hampshire counties, goes after the ball during the alumni soccer game on Sept. 25. Jay coached soccer here after captaining both the soccer and basketball teams as an undergraduate and before entering politics. He was unopposed for reelection this year, by the way. And, for those interested, the varsity won the game, 2-1.

On the inside of a note pink-printed "It's a Girl!" Myra and Jeff Brinn write, "As you can see, we are now twice blessed. Everyone is well." "Everyone" includes Jessica Ann, born Aug. 18, 1976, 6 lbs. 12 oz. Jeff expects "to be certified (C.P.A.) and masterfied (M.B.A.) sometime in the spring. I only need the auditing part of the C.P.A. exam and to finish the thesis. Bumped into Tom Phelan '67 in the 40ths. Tom is a bachelor attorney-type living in the 58ths."

A news story tells us that Jeff Brown received his M.B.A. at Dartmouth's Amos Tuck School on June '73.

Bob Chambers writes: "My dissertation on musicology grinds relentlessly towards its conclusion. I also have a weekend classical music program on the University of Michigan radio station (WUOM, FM stereo). Had a front-and-center seat for President Ford's campaign kickoff speech here on the 15th. Talked to Sharon and Frank Reed on the phone the other day. Also, judging by the photo I received of their new house, I'd say Frank is doing quite well by himself. I'll be in Minneapolis for a brief visit with Ken Willcox '67. He's working for the Grace Company in that city and seems to be enjoying his job. True to form, he'll be at the Gophers' football game this Saturday. Wait'll they meet the Mighty Maize and Blue of Michigan — No. 1 in the nation!"

Another newspaper clipping tells me that Geoff Connor was recently married to Maud Howland Pyne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wright Pyne of Fall Hills, N.J. The couple is now in London where Geoff is associated with the law firm of Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen and Hamilton.

Tony Dewitt writes: "Have been accepted into Foreign Service and expect to be assigned abroad sometime next year, although I'd enjoy staying in Washington for a while. Would like eventually to receive a Moscow assignment, so if any Class of 1968 members need a place to sleep during the 1980 Olympics I may just be able to help."

Mark Donovan says he's "noted a distinct 'western drift' of classmates. However, after training in Honolulu, Albuquerque and Albany, I am returning home to Bennington to become a real doctor. Too much city living for a country bumpkin."

Chris Dornin says: "Cathy and I have settled into a modest old house in Laconia, N.H., where one of the biggest pleasures you can enjoy is going to the beach (pick one — there are 50 nearby) or seeing if another tomato has turned orange since yesterday. Every two or three years we run into a Williams type — Jim Barnes '69, Bob Gillmore, etc."

Steve Fisher says: "Marsha and I are the proud parents of a new Ephlet, David Scott Fisher, born June 4, 1976. Expenses are still being paid by Xerox Corporation, where I am now manager/profit planning. Unfortunately, due to the responsibilities of parenthood we will miss the annual vigil to Billsville for Homecoming but plan to be back next year in greater numbers. Best wishes for a warm winter to all the Prospect clan."

John Fulkerson "had another (second) addition to our family, Bradford Lyle Fulkerson, who was born at Yale-New Haven Hospital. He has a lot of spunk and I think he will have a good forehead. Had dinner recently with Ted May '70 and his wife, Debbie, in Wethersfield and had lunch with Bob O'Connell '70 at the Hospital for Special Surgery in New York. Ted and Bob were fellow Brooks Housers."

Bob Gault is "still practicing law at Mintz Levin in Boston."

Charlie Gordon writes: "After three plus years in N.Y.C., Cricket and I moved up to Buffalo this past September. Have a new job with Buffalo architectural firm and she is teaching for ninth year in a row. Some day I hope to give my wife a vacation if she wants it but for now we are still paying for schooling and stuff like that. Have recently seen Harry Schooley '67, Henry Comstock '69, Peter Lammerts '69, Lloyd Constantine '69 and Whit Knapp '70. Also attended Dick — couldn't read it — wedding in June with bevy of Williams alums, including Rick Moore and Jo Blodgett '69."

Jack Graves received his J.D. from the University of California (Hastings) in May and took the California Bar examination in July. "Am now awaiting results which are due to be released by Thanksgiving. Have been offered a clerkship with a federal judge in Los Angeles, but hate to leave San Francisco at all, and so will look around here for a real job. Am still working for the same firm in S.F. for which I've clerked all during law school."

Bob Graffagnino writes from Columbus that he's "just back from a brief visit to Billsville to install my cousin Paul Graffagnino as a member of the Class of '80. He, I am certain, will make a more significant mark there than I. There are a number of us, I know, who merely reaped the benefits of the Williams existence without leaving behind anything more than a brief mention in a dusty yearbook and a nonerasable memory bit in Class of '55 Phil Smith's mind."

"Sarah and I had a brief but enjoyable visit from 'Go You Harmon'; that is, Little Johnny Kinabrew, Carolyn, John-John and Christopher, last spring. They have successfully isolated themselves from humanity in the North Carolina back country but were scouting Cincinnati for a possible relocation this fall and dropped by Columbus for the weekend. By the way, John, your toilet kit is still here."

"Bobby and Chris have just started first grade this fall and Sarah is enjoying her full days of freedom. Now if she would just go out and earn some money . . .

"Tomorrow I pass the barrier beyond which I can no longer be trusted (i.e., 30 years) and Sarah's is next month. I suppose nearly everyone in the class has recently survived this catastrophe, or is about to do so. My sympathies to you all. Also this fall I will be completing my M.B.A. at Ohio State—after three years of evening classes, missing dinner twice a week and more than a few Sunday afternoons in the library. It was worth it, but you do need a very understanding wife.

"Less than two years till the 10th Reunion!" Gordon Juan says: "I'm back in Cincinnati after two years of general practice in the National Health Service Corps (branch of U.S. Public Health Service) and am in my second year of psychiatric residency at the University of Cincinnati. My future plans remain unclear. I am considering returning to the New England area, practicing adult general psychiatry, or staying here in Cincinnati for a few more years in my own personal analysis (couch time). Have not seen or heard from any '68 alumni for some time. Last I heard, Bob Arbeit was at N.I.A. in immunology and was thinking of returning to Yale for a fellowship in infectious diseases. Austin Wand was finishing off a radiology residency at Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco and looking for a job back East."

Matthew Lyon says: "A lot has happened since I last wrote. Got married July 1 in a beautiful but somewhat unusual manner in Oklahoma. Went to see my new in-laws in Newfoundland (also very beautiful) on the 2d. Have since returned to Denver; busy training my (and my wife's) replacement at Ananda Margra.

"Currently taking art courses at a local college and learning the rainbow business. My wife is the former Miss Jessica Marie Gleason, past resident of much of the world, from Michigan to Germany to India and numerous points in between."

My Guru, P. R. Sarkar, remains on a protest fast (now over 3½ years) while in jail under Mrs. Gandhi's somewhat less than pleasant regime. His case is the subject of Congressional hearings."

Steven Mason has "finished two years curing malaria in Bethesda and am currently treating heart attacks at Johns Hopkins Hospital. Am divorced and welcome alumni in the Baltimore-Washington area temporarily or permanently."

Joel Morse, another thoughtful donor to the fund to finance these class notes, reports that he's teaching finance at the University of Delaware. "At the American Economic Association's Atlantic City meeting," Joel reports, "I ran into Peter Naylor and his beautiful wife."

Paul Neely says he was "recently appointed assistant Sunday editor of The Courier Journal Times in Louisville and am responsible for the Outlook, Business and Lively Arts sections of the Sunday paper."

A news clipping thoughtfully forwarded by Class of 1918 Secretary Ed Powers reports that John Odden recently married Jennifer Swan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. C. Swan Jr. of Katonah, N.Y. The clipping also says that John served two years in the Army and is now assistant to the headmaster at the Rippowam-Cisqua School.

Ed Perry has continued to take what he calls "anti-Potomac-fever pills while working on conflict-of-interest cases and legislation for the U.S. Department of Labor. Have seen Bob Heiss, Bill Roesing (confirmation of his being in Washington at least once this year), Ed Rea and Sandy Smith '69. Enjoyed the Washington-area Williams dinner where Professor Burns explained how Kennedy will capture the Democratic nomination this year. Perhaps the Berkshire Eagle is the only newspaper that reaches the Purple Valley."

Bill Perttula (nee Pete) says: "My wife and I bought a house in August and are settling in as solid, not-so-young homeowners. I turned 30 a couple of days ago. Obviously not an uncommon occurrence among '69 grads."

Larry Pitcher says: "I've been with the law

Todd '68 Named Information Manager Chicago Options Exchange

David L. Todd '68 has been named media information manager of the Chicago Board Options Exchange. He was news editor and communications specialist at The First National Bank of Chicago. He will direct C.B.O.E. press relations and is its spokesman.

Previously a reporter for the Associated Press and the Minneapolis Tribune, he received a National Endowment for the Humanities fellowship for writing excellence.

After a year's graduate work at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, he was director of alumni program planning and publication at Regis College in Denver.

firm of Albertson, Simmons and Butler in New Rochelle, N.Y., since I graduated from law school two years ago. The firm has a definite Williams influence as three of the five attorneys in the office went to Williams. I moved from New York City and out to the suburbs—Mamaroneck—where I am living in a rented house."

Charlie Potts writes from West Simsbury, Conn., that he passed through Williamstown recently (on business) and took the opportunity to tour the new Sawyer Library, and to see the changes in the old Stetson Library, and was very impressed. "Everyone should see it, as they should the field house and enclosed rink. I certainly envy today's Williams students. From the 'small world' department: I recently entered a mixed-doubles tennis tournament and by complete chance drew Pat Anathan, wife of Tom Anathan '66, as my partner. (She fortunately was able to carry me to a respectable finish.) Jan and I look forward to seeing some familiar faces at the Wesleyan game in November."

Pete Rice says: "I'm still in Kentucky making kayaks and selling them to specialty outdoor shops all over the country. I'm sure more than a few Williams men are paddling Phoenix kayaks. Peggy and I haven't seen many old Williams friends; Berea is not exactly in the mainstream. I see the Calfees every so often in Cleveland and have visited Laurie and Tim Dorman '70 in Palo Alto when I've been out there on business. Since we'll be settling in the Southeast for some time we're selling (sadly!) our property on Oblong Road in Williamstown. If any classmates are interested they should write me. 26 beautiful acres!"

"Barbara and Pat Bassett '70 visited us recently. Pat is chairman of the English department at Woodberry Forest School in Virginia. Finally! A Williams visitor in Berea!"

Bob Scott is "continuing to work hard at Morgan Stanley & Co., although now I have a title—vice president." Bob said he hoped to get up to Williamstown this summer for some golf, etc. "Haven't seen many classmates, although I have spoken recently with Tad Piper, who reports all is well in Minneapolis."

Bill Shapiro reports: "Good news from our home, as Ginny gave birth to a 8 lb. 6 oz. boy on June 17. His name is Brenden Michael and he is growing by leaps and bounds." The Shapiros now live in Springfield, Va.

Bob Stanton is now "chief resident in orthopedics at Yale. Will be finished in June and hope to locate in New England. I have spoken recently with Tom Bell and Bob Groban '70.

We're getting ready for our annual Amherst victory reunion. Tom is soon to be a partner in his law firm. See John Fulkerson frequently. He is a year back in the orthopedic residency but No. 1 in our tennis ladder. Watched the 'Great Debate' last night. It seems each candidate has a stock answer for each question which somehow fails to clearly deal with the problem. By the way, my mother is now an employee of Williams—she is Manton Copeland '39's assistant. She would love to see any of my friends from the Class of 1968 if they are in town."

Another clip (courtesy, again, of Ed Powers '18) relates that Nedland Williams married Jane Jones (Smith), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones of Boardman, Ohio, in September. Ned is now a financial analyst with Dennison Manufacturing Company, paper manufacturers in Framingham, Mass.

Bob Wilson is chief resident, ENT, head and neck surgery, at Duke. "I see Jim Love about every day as he rushes past me," Bob writes.

Dave Wrightington '66 reports that Jake Van Dyken reports that Dan Sullivan is now at the Institute of Public Administration in Dublin, Ireland.

The Alumni Office reports that first-class mail has been returned from Adriel Bowman at 622 Lashburn, San Fernando, Calif.; from Martin Brutus at 66-15 Thornton Avenue, Forest Hills, N.Y.; from William Gardner, 420 East 30th Street, Durango, Colo.; Bill Silver at 234 West 11th Street, New York; and Andy Weiss at 840 Coleman, Menlo Park, Calif.

Gentlemen, where are you? It's not nice to fool with the Alumni Office.

The following members of the Class of 1968 are on the "lost list." If you know their whereabouts, please inform the Society of Alumni: Peter B. Abrahams, V. John DeMarco, Michio Hamano, Matthew R. Lyon, William P. Roesing, David L. Sipress, L. Edward Weeks III, William G. Williams.

'69 President, Emmanuel Santa Donato; Vice President, Alan Dittich; Secretary, Lawrence B. McCullough, Program in Medicine & Humanities, College of Medicine, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843; Agent, Henry W. Comstock Jr.

Secretary McCullough reports:

Greetings from Texas, once again. I have settled in amidst the Gulf Plains of Texas, teaching philosophy and developing a program in humanities for the new medical school at Texas A&M. I will be teaching medical ethics and the philosophy of medicine to our medical students, who will also take courses in the history of medicine. Our first students arrive next fall and the class will be small, but, like all things in Texas, we expect to grow.

It is with great sadness and regret that I report the death on July 22 of this year of David Desloge. What do you say when a classmate dies too young? I don't know, except to say that we have all been diminished, the world has shrunk.

In a happier vein—in our world of violent contrast—I report the marriage of Lowell Smith to Sally Allis Sanford. They were married in New Haven on Aug. 28. Sally is a graduate of Yale and Sanford, where she is now pursuing a doctoral degree in Renaissance and Baroque music. Sandy, formerly of the National Humanities Faculty, a nonprofit educational consulting group, expects to receive his M.B.A., also from Stanford, next June. Best wishes from all of us to y'all. By the way, thanks and a tip of the hat to Edwin Powers '18 for this news.

Bob Cronin writes from New Orleans, Miss., that he is still teaching at New Orleans Center for Creative Arts, while his wife, Emily, is production manager for Tulane University's theater department. Bob is also directing shows (four in
